

Jim Kirlin, CFCM, CPCM, Fellow

Jim is formerly a Senior Subcontracts Manager with Raytheon Company in Fort Wayne, IN. Jim has 30 years of contracts and supply chain experience in the government and industry. Prior to joining Raytheon as a Contracts Manager, Jim served in the U.S. Air Force as an acquisition officer. Jim has a BSBA from the University of Florida and an MBA from the University of Montana. Jim is a member of seven contracting/supply chain/compliance professional associations: NCMA, IACCM, ISM, CIPS, APICS, PMAC, and SCCE. Jim holds seventeen professional certifications in subcontract management, compliance, contracting, supply chain, and supplier diversity, from the U.S., U.K. and Canada. Jim holds NCMA's Lifetime CPCM and Lifetime CFCM. He is a NCMA Fellow and has been honored with the NCMA Charles A. Dana Distinguished Service Award, the NCMA National Achievement Award and the NCMA Education Award (twice). Jim served on the NCMA Board of Directors and served as Chair of the Policy Committee. He is the author of two articles in NCMA's Contract Management magazine. He has presented at six NCMA World Congresses and at numerous National Education Seminars and Chapter meetings. Jim is the author of the book "Subcontract Management - A to Z" published by the NCMA in 2014.